|---|----------------|
| ‘Definitions for part  | 1              |
| ‘116B. In this part—   | 2              |
| “detainee” means—  | 3              |
| (a) for section 116C(1)—someone who is in custody at a correctional institution; and  | 45         |
| (b) otherwise—someone who is—   | 6              |
| (i) in custody at a correctional institution; and   | 7              |
| (ii) a party to a proceeding.   | 8              |
| “proceeding” for a provision of this part, other than section 116C(1), means a proceeding to which section 116C(1) applies.  | 910        |
| ‘Use of video link facilities in proceedings   | 11             |
| ‘116C.(1) This section applies to a proceeding if—   | 12             |
| (a) a detainee is entitled or required to be present before the Supreme Court for the proceeding; and   | 1314       |
| (b) the proceeding is about an offence with which the detainee is charged, including a proceeding for the detainee’s bail or remand; and  | 151617 |
| (c) video link facilities are available linking the correctional institution where the detainee is in custody and the court.  | 1819       |
| ‘(2) A proceeding for the detainee’s bail or remand must be conducted using the video link facilities, unless the court, in the interests of justice, otherwise orders.              | 202122 |
| ‘(3) In a proceeding, other than a proceeding for the detainee’s bail or remand, the court may order the proceeding be conducted using video link facilities if all parties consent. | 232425 |
| ‘(4) Only the court, the detainee and the detainee’s representative in a proceeding may use the video link facilities for the proceeding.  | 2627       |
| ‘Detainee taken to be before the court   | 28             |

for the conduct of a proceeding, when the proceeding is being conducted, is taken to be in the presence of the Supreme Court for all purposes. 1

‘(2) The part of the correctional institution used for the proceeding is taken to be part of the court for the conduct of the proceeding. 3

‘(3) Any entitlement of, or requirement for, the detainee under any law or court order to be present before the court in the proceeding is taken to be satisfied by the detainee’s use of video link facilities for the proceeding. 5

‘Way video link facilities must be operated 8

‘116E.(1) Video link facilities, when used for a proceeding, are to be operated in a way that ensures two-way audio and visual communication between the detainee and the Supreme Court. 9
11

‘(2) If video link facilities fail during a proceeding, the court may adjourn the proceeding or make another appropriate order, as if the detainee were still in the presence of the court. 12
13

‘Facilities for private communication 15

‘116F.(1) The Supreme Court and the correctional institution must make facilities available for private communication between the detainee and the detainee’s representative in a proceeding if the representative is at the place where the court is sitting. 16
17
19

‘(2) A communication between the detainee and the detainee’s representative is as confidential and as inadmissible in any proceeding as it would be if it took place while the detainee and the detainee’s representative were in each other’s presence. 20
21
23

‘Variation or revocation of order 24

‘116G. The Supreme Court may, at any time, vary or revoke an order made under section 116C.’. 25
