Subdivision 3 Monitoring device conditions

66A Definitions for subdivision

In this subdivision—

monitoring device means an electronic device capable of being worn, and not removed, by a person for the purpose of a prescribed entity finding or monitoring the geographical location of the person.

monitoring device condition see section 66B(1).

prescribed entity means each of the following entities—

- (a) the chief executive of a department that is mainly responsible for any of the following matters—
 - (i) adult corrective services;
 - (ii) child protection services;
 - (iii) community services;
- (b) the chief executive of another department that provides services to persons who fear or experience domestic violence or who commit domestic violence;
- (c) the police commissioner;
- (d) an entity prescribed by regulation for this definition.

safety device means an electronic device given to a person by a prescribed entity for the purpose of identifying risks to the safety of the person in relation to another person on whom a monitoring device condition is imposed.

66B Court may impose monitoring device condition

- (1) Without limiting section 57, if the respondent is an adult, the court may impose a condition (a monitoring device condition) on the respondent that requires the respondent to wear a monitoring device for a stated period if—

- (a) the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the wearing of a monitoring device by the respondent is necessary or desirable to protect the aggrieved from domestic violence, a named person from associated domestic violence or a named person who is a child from being exposed to domestic violence; and
 - (ii) either—
 - (A) the respondent has been convicted of, or is charged with, a domestic violence offence or an indictable offence involving violence against another person; or
 - (B) there is a history of charges for domestic violence offences made against the respondent; and
 - (iii) the respondent is not required by a court or other entity to wear an electronic device for the purpose of an entity finding or monitoring the respondent's geographical location; and
 - (b) the court is prescribed by regulation for this paragraph as a court that can impose a monitoring device condition; and
 - (c) any other requirement prescribed by regulation for this section is satisfied.
- (2) The monitoring device condition may be imposed only for the period the court considers reasonably necessary in all the circumstances of the case.

- (3) The court must give reasons for imposing the monitoring device condition.

66C Considerations for imposing monitoring device condition

- (1) In deciding whether to impose a monitoring device condition on the respondent, the court must consider, in addition to the matters mentioned in section 57 and the information given under section 66D, the following matters—
- (a) the personal circumstances of the respondent, including the geographical area where the respondent lives and the respondent's living arrangements;
 - (b) the respondent's ability to charge and maintain the monitoring device;
 - (c) any views or wishes expressed by the aggrieved or named person regarding imposing the monitoring device condition on the respondent;
 - (d) any other matter prescribed by regulation for this section.
- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), a court imposing a monitoring device condition on the respondent must consider whether to impose on the respondent—
- (a) an ouster condition; or
 - (b) a condition under section 58(c) that prohibits the respondent from approaching, or attempting to approach, the aggrieved or named person.

66D Request for information

- (1) The court may ask a prescribed entity or another

[s 15]

entity prescribed by regulation for this section to provide information that the court reasonably considers—

- (a) is likely to be in the entity's possession; and
 - (b) may help the court in deciding whether it is necessary or desirable to impose the monitoring device condition on the respondent.
- (2) The entity must comply with the request for information.
- (3) However, the entity is required only to provide information in the entity's possession or to which the entity has access.

66E Other conditions and arrangements if monitoring device condition imposed

- (1) If the court imposes a monitoring device condition on the respondent—

- (a) the court may impose any other condition that the court considers necessary to facilitate the operation of the monitoring device; and

Examples of conditions a court may consider necessary to facilitate the operation of a monitoring device required to be worn by a respondent—

- a condition that requires the respondent to attend at a stated place to be fitted with the monitoring device
 - a condition that requires the respondent to take stated and other reasonable steps to ensure the monitoring device and any equipment necessary for the operation of the monitoring device are, or remain, in good working order
- (b) the chief executive must make all necessary and convenient arrangements to ensure compliance with the monitoring device condition and any other conditions the court imposes.

- (2) The chief executive may, for the performance of the chief executive's function under subsection (1)(b), ask a prescribed entity—
 - (a) to fit the monitoring device to, or to remove the monitoring device from, the respondent; and
 - (b) to do any of the following—
 - (i) remotely monitor the monitoring device;
 - (ii) give a safety device to the aggrieved or named person;
 - (iii) remotely monitor the safety device;
 - (iv) contact the respondent in relation to an alert or notification from the monitoring device;
 - (v) contact the aggrieved or named person in relation to an alert or notification from the safety device;
 - (vi) give information relating to alerts and notifications from the monitoring device to the chief executive and another prescribed entity;
 - (vii) anything else the chief executive considers relevant to the imposition of the conditions.
- (3) In making a request under subsection (2), the chief executive may have regard to the prescribed entity's ability to comply with the request.
- (4) The prescribed entity must comply with a request under subsection (2).
- (5) The prescribed entity may delegate a function requested under subsection (2) to an appropriately qualified person.

66F Information relating to monitoring device condition

- (1) A regulation may prescribe—
 - (a) how information relating to a monitoring device or safety device, including information relating to alerts and notifications from the device or a person's geographical location, may be shared and with whom; and
 - (b) the purpose for which the information may be shared; and
 - (c) the entity responsible for recording or storing the information; and
 - (d) how the information will be recorded or stored.
- (2) A person who obtains information relating to a monitoring device or safety device, including information relating to alerts and notifications from the device or a person's geographical location, must not use the information for a purpose other than—
 - (a) the purpose for which the information was obtained; or
 - (b) a purpose that is authorised or permitted under an Act.

Maximum penalty—100 penalty units or 2 years imprisonment.

66G Restriction on disclosure in proceedings

- (1) Evidence of the imposition of a monitoring device condition or the use of a monitoring device, and other evidence directly or indirectly derived from the imposition or use, is not admissible in any proceeding other than—

- (a) a proceeding for a domestic violence offence; or
 - (b) a proceeding for a criminal offence that is not a domestic violence offence in which the court considers it is in the interests of justice to admit the evidence.
- (2) Evidence of the use of a safety device, and other evidence directly or indirectly derived from the use, is not admissible in any proceeding other than a proceeding for a domestic violence offence.

66H Expiry of subdivision

This subdivision expires on the day that is 2 years after the day this section commences.

Part 4—

insert—

Division 1A Power to issue police protection direction

Subdivision 1 Preliminary

100A Purpose of police protection directions

The purpose of police protection directions is to provide a way for police to respond to acts of domestic violence, to achieve the main objects of this Act, in circumstances when it would be appropriate not to bring the matter before a court.

Subdivision 2 Issue of police protection direction

100B Police officer may issue direction

- (1) A police officer may issue a direction (a police protection direction) against a person (the respondent) if the officer reasonably believes—
 - (a) the respondent has committed domestic violence; and
 - (b) a police protection direction is necessary or desirable to protect the aggrieved from domestic violence; and
 - (c) none of the circumstances mentioned in section 100C or 100D(2) apply; and
 - (d) it would not be more appropriate to take action that involves an application for a protection order.
- (2) In deciding whether to issue a police protection direction, the police officer must consider—
 - (a) the principles mentioned in section 4; and

[s 19]

- (b) the criminal history and domestic violence history of the respondent and the aggrieved; and
 - (c) whether any circumstances mentioned in section 100E(1)(a) apply and, if so, whether the circumstances indicate it would be more appropriate to take action that involves an application for a protection order; and
 - (d) any views or wishes expressed by the aggrieved about whether an application for a protection order should be made.
- (3) Before issuing a police protection direction, if the respondent is not present at the same location as the police officer, the officer must make a reasonable attempt to locate and talk to the respondent, including by telephone, to afford the respondent natural justice in relation to the issuing of a police protection direction.
- (4) This section is subject to sections 100K and 100L.

100C Circumstances when police officer must not issue direction

- (1) A police officer must not issue a police protection direction against the respondent if the officer reasonably believes any of the following circumstances apply—
- (a) either the aggrieved or the respondent is—
 - (i) a child; or
 - (ii) a police officer;
 - (b) the respondent should be taken into custody under division 3 or otherwise in relation to the relevant domestic violence;
 - (c) a domestic violence order or recognised interstate order relating to the respondent and the aggrieved is in force or has

- previously been in force (regardless of who is or was the respondent and who is or was the aggrieved);
- (d) a police protection direction against the respondent is in force or has previously been in force;
 - (e) the respondent has been convicted of a domestic violence offence within the previous 2 years;
 - (f) a proceeding for a domestic violence offence against the respondent has started but not been finally disposed of;
 - (g) an application for a protection order against the respondent has been made but not finally dealt with;
 - (h) the respondent used, or threatened to use, an offensive weapon or instrument to commit the relevant domestic violence;
 - (i) that, in relation to the relevant domestic violence—
 - (i) there are indications that both persons in the relationship are in need of protection; and
 - (ii) the person who is most in need of protection in the relationship can not be identified.
- (2) Subsection (1)(f) does not prevent the issue of a police protection direction against the respondent and, at the same time, the starting of a proceeding against the respondent for a domestic violence offence relating to the relevant domestic violence.
- (3) Also, a police officer must not issue a police protection direction against the respondent if the officer reasonably believes—

[s 19]

- (a) it is necessary or desirable to protect a child of the aggrieved, or a child who usually lives with the aggrieved, from—
 - (i) associated domestic violence; or
 - (ii) being exposed to domestic violence committed by the respondent; and
 - (b) a condition mentioned in section 100H is needed to provide the protection.
- (4) In this section—
- offensive weapon or instrument* see the Police Powers and Responsibilities Act 2000, schedule 6.

100D Restriction on issuing direction involving child of respondent

- (1) This section applies in relation to a police protection direction that—
 - (a) includes a child of the respondent as a named person; or
 - (b) includes a condition that would prevent or limit contact between the respondent and a child of the respondent.
- (2) A police officer must not issue a police protection direction mentioned in subsection (1) if the officer knows or reasonably believes—
 - (a) any of the following orders or agreements relating to the child is in force—
 - (i) a family law order; or
 - (ii) an order or care agreement under the Child Protection Act 1999; or
 - (b) a proceeding relating to the child under the Child Protection Act 1999 or the Family

Law Act 1975 (Cwlth) has been started but not finally dealt with.

- (3) Before issuing a police protection direction mentioned in subsection (1), a police officer must ask the respondent and the aggrieved whether subsection (2)(a) or (b) applies.
- (4) If a police protection direction mentioned in subsection (1) is issued and a condition of the direction is inconsistent with an order or agreement mentioned in subsection (2)(a)—
 - (a) the condition is of no effect to the extent of the inconsistency; and
 - (b) the inconsistency does not invalidate or otherwise affect the police protection direction.

100E Other matters for consideration before issuing direction

- (1) If a police officer is considering issuing a police protection direction, the officer must consider—
 - (a) whether any of the following circumstances apply—
 - (i) the respondent may cause serious harm to the aggrieved or a named person if the respondent commits further domestic violence;
 - (ii) additional powers of a court, in making a protection order, may be necessary or desirable to protect the aggrieved from further domestic violence by the respondent;

Examples of additional powers—

- making an intervention order
- imposing conditions on a protection order that may not be imposed on a

[s 19]

police protection direction, such as a monitoring device condition under section 66B or a condition about possessing a thing used as a weapon under section 81

- (iii) the respondent or the aggrieved has a conviction for a domestic violence offence;

Note—

See also section 100C(1)(e).

- (iv) the respondent is not present at the same location as the officer and the officer has not, after making reasonable attempts, been able to locate and talk to the respondent, including by telephone, to perform the officer's functions under division 1; and
 - (b) if any of the circumstances mentioned in paragraph (a) apply—whether the circumstances indicate it would be more appropriate to take action that involves an application for a protection order.
- (2) The fact that circumstances mentioned in subsection (1)(a) exist—
- (a) does not mean the police officer can not issue a police protection direction; and
 - (b) does not invalidate a police protection direction issued by the police officer whether or not the officer considered the matter mentioned in subsection (1)(b).

100F Naming persons in direction

- (1) This section applies if a police officer issuing a police protection direction reasonably believes—
 - (a) naming a child of the aggrieved, or a child who usually lives with the aggrieved, in the direction is necessary or desirable to protect the child from—

- (i) associated domestic violence; or
 - (ii) being exposed to domestic violence committed by the respondent; or
 - (b) naming another relative, or an associate, of the aggrieved in the direction is necessary or desirable to protect the relative or associate from associated domestic violence.
- (2) The police officer may name the child, relative or associate (each a named person) in the police protection direction.

Note—

See, however, section 100C(3).

100G Standard conditions must be included

A police protection direction must include a condition that the respondent—

- (a) must be of good behaviour towards the aggrieved and must not commit domestic violence against the aggrieved; and
- (b) must not organise, encourage, ask, tell, force or engage another person to do something that, if done by the respondent, would be domestic violence against the aggrieved; and
- (c) if the direction includes a named person who is an adult—
 - (i) must be of good behaviour towards the named person; and
 - (ii) must not commit associated domestic violence against the named person; and

[s 19]

- (iii) must not organise, encourage, ask, tell, force or engage another person to do something that, if done by the respondent, would be domestic violence against the named person; and
- (d) if the direction includes a named person who is a child—
 - (i) must be of good behaviour towards the child; and
 - (ii) must not commit associated domestic violence against the child; and
 - (iii) must not expose the child to domestic violence; and
 - (iv) must not organise, encourage, ask, tell, force or engage another person to do something that, if done by the respondent, would be associated domestic violence against the child; and
 - (v) must not organise, encourage, ask, tell, force or engage another person to do something that exposes the child to domestic violence.

100H Other conditions may be included

- (1) This section does not apply to a police protection direction naming a child.

Note—

See section 100C(3).

- (2) A police protection direction may include any or all of the conditions that may be imposed on a police protection notice under section 106A.
- (3) The police officer issuing a police protection direction may impose a condition mentioned in subsection (2) if—

- (a) the police officer reasonably believes the condition is necessary or desirable to—
 - (i) protect the aggrieved from domestic violence; or
 - (ii) protect a named person from associated domestic violence; and
 - (b) for an ouster condition in relation to the aggrieved's usual place of residence—the police officer has considered the matters mentioned in section 64(1)(a) to (h) and (2); and
 - (c) for an ouster condition—the police officer has considered imposing a return condition; and
 - (d) the supervising police officer who approves, under section 100K, the issuing of the direction including the condition is—
 - (i) for a cool-down condition—of at least the rank of sergeant; or
 - (ii) for an ouster condition or no-contact condition—of at least the rank of senior sergeant.
- (4) To remove any doubt, it is declared that the premises that may be stated in a cool-down condition or ouster condition include—
- (a) premises in which the respondent has a legal or equitable interest; and
 - (b) premises where the aggrieved and respondent live together or have previously lived together; and
 - (c) premises where the aggrieved or a named person lives, works or frequents.

100I Condition for protection of unborn child

- (1) This section applies if—
 - (a) a police officer issuing a police protection direction reasonably believes an aggrieved is pregnant; and
 - (b) the direction does not include any conditions mentioned in section 100H.

Note—

See section 100C(3).

- (2) The police protection direction may include a condition mentioned in section 100G(d) that takes effect when the child is born.
- (3) The police officer may impose the condition if satisfied the condition is necessary or desirable to protect the child from associated domestic violence, or being exposed to domestic violence, once the child is born.
- (4) To remove any doubt, it is declared that the police officer may impose the condition whether or not the respondent is the father of the child.

100J Police officer must consider accommodation needs

- (1) This section applies if—
 - (a) a police protection direction includes a cool-down condition or ouster condition; and
 - (b) a police officer serves the direction on the respondent or tells the respondent about the direction as mentioned in section 100R(1)(b).
- (2) The police officer must—
 - (a) consider the accommodation needs of the respondent; and

- (b) take any reasonable steps necessary to ensure the respondent has access to temporary accommodation.

Examples of reasonable steps—

- making, or arranging, telephone enquiries to identify temporary accommodation
- transporting the respondent a short distance to suitable temporary accommodation, for example, a motel or the residence of a family member or friend

- (3) To remove any doubt, it is declared that the requirement under subsection (2)(b) does not include an obligation for the police officer or the Queensland police service—

- (a) to transport, or arrange for the transport of, the respondent to the accommodation; or
- (b) to provide accommodation to the respondent free of charge.

100K Approval of supervising police officer required

- (1) Before issuing a police protection direction, the police officer must obtain the approval of a supervising police officer.
- (2) The supervising police officer must be a police officer—
- (a) of at least the following rank—
- (i) if the police protection direction includes an ouster condition or no-contact condition—senior sergeant;
- (ii) otherwise—sergeant; and
- (b) authorised by the police commissioner to approve the issue of police protection directions; and

[s 19]

- (c) who was not involved in investigating the relevant domestic violence.
- (3) The approval of the supervising police officer may be sought and given verbally, including, for example, in person, or by telephone, radio, internet or other similar facility.
- (4) If the supervising police officer reasonably believes a police protection notice may be issued under section 101 and it would be more appropriate for a police protection notice to be issued—
 - (a) the supervising police officer may approve the issue of a police protection notice as if the request for approval were a request under section 102 for approval to issue a police protection notice; and
 - (b) the approval is taken to have been given under section 102.
- (5) The police officer must make a written record of—
 - (a) the supervising police officer's decision—
 - (i) to give or refuse the approval; or
 - (ii) if subsection (4) applies—to approve the issue of a police protection notice; and
 - (b) the date and time of the decision; and
 - (c) the supervising police officer's name, rank, registered number, if any, and station.
- (6) If the supervising police officer decides to refuse the approval, the police officer must not seek approval from another police officer.
- (7) The police commissioner must keep the written record mentioned in subsection (5) in hard copy or electronic form.

100L Cross-direction not permitted

- (1) This section applies if a police officer issues a police protection direction (the first direction) that names a person (the first person) as a respondent and another person (the second person) as an aggrieved.
- (2) Until the first direction stops having effect, a police officer can not issue a police protection direction that names the first person as an aggrieved and the second person as a respondent.

Note—

See section 100R(3) for when a police protection direction stops having effect.

100M Contact details and address for service

- (1) Subsection (2) applies in relation to a police protection direction—
 - (a) if the respondent is present when a police officer issues the direction—when the police officer issues the direction; or
 - (b) if a police officer talks to the respondent in relation to the issuing of the direction under section 100B(3)—when the police officer talks to the respondent; or
 - (c) otherwise—when a police officer personally serves the direction on the respondent.
- (2) The police officer must ask the respondent to provide—
 - (a) the respondent's contact details; and
 - (b) an address for service of documents.
- (3) Without limiting subsection (2)(b), the address may be—
 - (a) the address of accommodation arranged under section 100J; or

[s 19]

- (b) the address of a friend or family member of the respondent.
- (4) If the respondent provides an address under subsection (2)(b) other than an address where the respondent lives or works and, in relation to a proceeding before a court, another person living at the address advises the court that the person does not consent to the use of the address for the service of documents under this Act, the address is not a valid address for service of the documents.
- (5) The respondent is not obliged to comply with a request under subsection (2).
- (6) This section does not limit the Police Powers and Responsibilities Act 2000, section 40.

Note—

Under the Police Powers and Responsibilities Act 2000, section 40, a police officer may require a person to state the person's correct name and address in particular circumstances.

100N Form of direction

- (1) A police protection direction issued by a police officer must—
 - (a) be in the form approved by the police commissioner; and
 - (b) state the police officer's name, rank, registered number, if any, and station; and
 - (c) state the name, contact details, if any, and address for service, if any, of the respondent; and
 - (d) state the name of the aggrieved and any named person; and
 - (e) state the type of relevant relationship that the police officer reasonably believes exists between the respondent and the aggrieved; and

- (f) state that—
 - (i) the police officer is satisfied the grounds for issuing a police protection direction under section 100B have been met; and
 - (ii) the respondent will be given a written notice stating the grounds as soon as practicable after the police protection direction takes effect; and
 - (g) state the conditions mentioned in section 100G; and
 - (h) state any condition imposed under section 100H or 100I, including, for a cool-down condition, the date and time when the condition ends; and
 - (i) state that the direction expires 12 months after the day the direction takes effect; and
 - (j) be signed by the police officer.
- (2) A police protection direction issued by a police officer may also state—
- (a) that, if an application for review of the direction is made under section 100Z and a copy of the direction is filed in the court under section 100ZA, the direction will be taken to be an application for a protection order; and
 - (b) the nature of the protection order that would be sought by the application; and
 - (c) the grounds on which the order would be sought.

100O Service of direction and grounds on respondent

- (1) A police officer must personally serve a police protection direction on the respondent.
- (2) Also, as soon as practicable after the police protection direction takes effect, the police officer who issued it must prepare and serve on the respondent a signed written notice stating the grounds for issuing the direction.
- (3) Service of the notice under subsection (2)—
 - (a) if an address for service for the respondent is known—may be made in any way; or
 - (b) otherwise—must be made personally by a police officer.
- (4) To remove any doubt, it is declared that this section applies even if the police protection direction has taken effect under section 100R(1)(b).

100P Giving copy of direction and grounds to aggrieved and named persons

- (1) A police officer must give a copy of a police protection direction to the aggrieved and each named person.
- (2) A police officer is not required to comply with subsection (1) if the police officer reasonably believes—
 - (a) the named person is a child; and
 - (b) a copy of the police protection direction has already been given to a parent of the child because the parent is the aggrieved or a named person.
- (3) A police officer must give a copy of a written notice prepared under section 100O(2) to the aggrieved or a named person if the aggrieved or named person asks for the copy.

- (4) Failure to comply with subsection (1) or (3) does not invalidate or otherwise affect the police protection direction.

100Q Explanation

- (1) This section applies if a police officer—
- (a) serves a police protection direction on a respondent; or
 - (b) tells a respondent about a police protection direction as mentioned in section 100R(1)(b); or
 - (c) gives a copy of a police protection direction to an aggrieved; or
 - (d) gives a copy of a police protection direction to a parent of a child as required under section 188.
- (2) The police officer must—
- (a) explain to the person—
 - (i) the police protection direction; and
 - (ii) the grounds on which the police officer who issued the direction reasonably believed that domestic violence had been committed; and
 - (iii) the reasons the police officer who issued the direction imposed the conditions of the direction; and
 - (b) take reasonable steps to ensure the person understands the nature and consequences of the direction.
- (3) Without limiting subsection (2), the police officer must explain—

[s 19]

- (a) the purpose and effect of the direction, including, for example, that—
 - (i) the direction may be enforceable in other States and New Zealand without further notice to the respondent; and
 - (ii) if the respondent has a weapons licence, or is a body's representative as mentioned in the Weapons Act, section 10(3), the licence or endorsement as the body's representative is dealt with by the Weapons Act, section 28A; and
 - (iii) under section 83(2), a person against whom a police protection direction is issued is not exempt from the Weapons Act, despite the Weapons Act, section 2; and
- (b) the duration of the direction; and
- (c) the conditions of the direction, including the behaviour the respondent is prohibited from engaging in under the conditions; and
- (d) the type of behaviour that constitutes domestic violence; and

Note—

See the examples of the type of behaviour that constitutes domestic violence in sections 8, 11 and 12, which define the terms domestic violence, emotional or psychological abuse and economic abuse.

- (e) the consequences of the respondent contravening the direction; and
- (f) that the aggrieved can not consent to the respondent contravening the direction; and
- (g) the right of the respondent or aggrieved to seek a review of the direction by the police commissioner under subdivision 4 or a

Magistrates Court under subdivision 5, how to seek the review and the possible decisions that could be made on the review; and

- (h) that the issue of the direction does not prevent the respondent or aggrieved from applying for a protection order under part 3, division 1; and
 - (i) any other matter prescribed by regulation.
- (4) Failure to comply with this section does not invalidate or otherwise affect a police protection direction.

100R Duration

- (1) A police protection direction takes effect when—
 - (a) the direction is served on the respondent personally or in a way stated in a substituted service order; or
 - (b) a police officer tells the respondent about the existence of the direction and the conditions of the direction.
- (2) For subsection (1)(b), the respondent may be told by a police officer about the existence of the police protection direction in any way, including, for example, by telephone, email, SMS message, a social networking site or other electronic means.
- (3) A police protection direction continues in force until—
 - (a) the end of 12 months from the day the direction takes effect under subsection (1); or
 - (aa) the direction ends under section 100ZD(3A)(a); or
 - (b) any of the following orders made in relation to the respondent and aggrieved becomes enforceable under section 177 (regardless of who is the respondent and who is the aggrieved in relation to that order)—

[s 19]

- (i) a domestic violence order;
- (ii) a recognised interstate order;
- (iii) a protection order under section 42; or
- (c) a police protection notice issued in relation to the respondent and aggrieved takes effect (regardless of who is the respondent and who is the aggrieved in relation to that notice); or
- (d) release conditions are imposed in relation to the respondent and aggrieved (regardless of who is the respondent and who is the aggrieved in relation to the release conditions); or
- (e) a proceeding for an application for a domestic violence order in relation to the same respondent and same aggrieved is—
 - (i) dismissed; or
 - (ii) adjourned without a temporary protection order being made under part 3, division 2.

Note—

See also sections 100Y(5) and 100ZD(3) in relation to the revocation or setting aside of a police protection direction.

- (4) Subsection (3)(e) does not apply to a proceeding for an application under subdivision 5 relating to the police protection direction.

Subdivision 3 Amendment of direction

100S Amendment of police protection direction

- (1) A police protection direction may be amended only as provided under this section.
- (2) The police commissioner may amend a police protection direction only—
 - (a) to correct a minor error; or
 - (b) to reflect a change in any of the following details that has been notified to the police commissioner—
 - (i) the name, contact details or address for service of the respondent;
 - (ii) the name of the aggrieved or a named person.
- (3) The police commissioner may delegate the commissioner's powers under this section only to a police officer—
 - (a) of a rank higher than the supervising officer who approved the issue of the direction; and
 - (b) who was not involved in investigating the relevant domestic violence.
- (4) Subsection (3)(a) does not apply if the police commissioner was the supervising officer who approved the issue of the police protection direction.

Subdivision 4 Police review of direction

100T Starting review on police officer's initiative

- (1) This section applies in relation to a police protection direction if a police officer—
 - (a) becomes aware of circumstances, or reasonably believes there are circumstances, that were not, or may not have been, known or considered by the issuing police officer when the direction was issued; and

[s 19]

- (b) reasonably believes that the circumstances may have affected the decision to issue, or the conditions imposed on, the direction, if the circumstances had been known or considered by the issuing police officer.
- (2) The police officer must ask the police commissioner to review the police protection direction.
- (3) In this section—
issuing police officer, in relation to a police protection direction, means the police officer who issued the direction.

100U Starting review on application

- (1) The following persons may apply to the police commissioner, within the prescribed period or a longer period agreed to by the police commissioner, for a review of the direction—
 - (a) the respondent;
 - (b) the aggrieved;
 - (c) an authorised person for the aggrieved;
 - (d) a named person.
- (2) However, a named person may only seek a review of—
 - (a) the naming of the person in the police protection direction; or
 - (b) a condition included on the police protection direction relating to the named person.
- (3) An application under subsection (1) must be—
 - (a) in the form approved by the police commissioner; or

- (b) if the police commissioner has not approved a form for the application—in writing.
- (4) In this section—

authorised person, for an aggrieved, means an adult authorised in writing by the aggrieved to represent the aggrieved in relation to an application under this subdivision.

prescribed period, for applying for a review of a police protection direction, means the period of 28 days after the notice stating the grounds for issuing the direction is served on the respondent under section 100O(2).

100V Effect of starting review

A request under section 100T, or an application under section 100U, for the review of a police protection direction does not affect the operation of the direction or prevent the taking of any action to implement the direction.

100W Submissions and information

- (1) As soon as practicable after receiving a request under section 100T, or an application under section 100U, for a review of a police protection direction, the police commissioner must give the respondent and aggrieved a written notice—
 - (a) notifying the respondent and aggrieved of the review; and
 - (b) inviting the respondent and aggrieved to make submissions about the review within a stated period of at least 7 days.
- (2) The police commissioner may also give a named person a written notice—

[s 19]

- (a) notifying the named person of the review; and
 - (b) inviting the named person to make submissions about the review within a stated period of at least 7 days.
- (3) The police commissioner may ask the respondent, the aggrieved or a named person for any information the commissioner considers necessary to decide the review.
- (4) The respondent, the aggrieved or a named person may, but is not required to—
 - (a) make submissions about the review in response to an invitation under subsection (1) or (2); or
 - (b) give information in response to a request under subsection (3).

100X Conduct of review

- (1) A review of a police protection direction under this subdivision may be conducted only by a police officer (the reviewing officer)—
 - (a) of a rank higher than the supervising officer who approved the issue of the direction; and
 - (b) authorised by the police commissioner to conduct reviews of police protection directions under this subdivision; and
 - (c) who was not involved in investigating the relevant domestic violence.
- (2) Subsection (1)(a) does not apply if the police commissioner was the supervising officer who approved the issue of the police protection direction.
- (3) The reviewing officer must—

- (a) consider all relevant information available to the officer, including any submissions made, or information given, in relation to the direction under section 100W; and
- (b) decide the review on the basis of the circumstances that existed when the police protection direction was issued, including any circumstances that existed at that time but were not known or considered by the police officer who issued the direction.

100Y Decision on review

- (1) The reviewing officer must, within 28 days after the request under section 100T, or the application under section 100U, is made for the review decide to—
 - (a) confirm the police protection direction; or
 - (b) revoke the police protection direction and issue a new police protection direction that—
 - (i) is against the same respondent in favour of the same aggrieved; and
 - (ii) has the same or different named persons; and
 - (iii) includes the same or different conditions; or
 - (c) revoke the police protection direction and take no other action; or
 - (d) revoke the police protection direction and do any of the following—
 - (i) apply to a court for a protection order in relation to the respondent and aggrieved under part 3, division 1;

[s 19]

- (ii) issue a police protection notice in relation to the respondent and aggrieved under division 2;
 - (iii) take any other action mentioned in section 100(3) that is appropriate in the circumstances.
- (2) A protection order sought under subsection (1)(d)(i)—
 - (a) may be—
 - (i) against the respondent in favour of the aggrieved; or
 - (ii) against the aggrieved in favour of the respondent; and
 - (b) may be subject to the same or different conditions as the revoked police protection direction.
- (3) A police protection notice issued under subsection (1)(d)(ii)—
 - (a) may be issued—
 - (i) against the respondent in favour of the aggrieved; or
 - (ii) against the aggrieved in favour of the respondent; and
 - (b) may be subject to the same or different conditions as the revoked police protection direction.
- (4) The reviewing officer must, as soon as practicable after deciding the review, give the respondent, aggrieved and each named person written notice of the decision stating—
 - (a) the decision; and
 - (b) the reasons for the decision; and

Note—

See the Acts Interpretation Act 1954, section 27B for matters that must be included with the reasons.

- (c) that the respondent or aggrieved may seek a review of the direction by a Magistrates Court under subdivision 5, how to seek the review and the possible decisions that could be made on the review; and
 - (d) that the respondent or aggrieved may apply for a protection order under part 3, division 1.
- (5) If the decision on the review is, or includes a decision, that the police protection direction is revoked—
- (a) the revoked direction is taken never to have been issued; and
 - (b) the revoked direction does not form part of the respondent's domestic violence history; and
 - (c) despite paragraphs (a) and (b), a proceeding may be started or continued against the respondent for an offence, committed before the direction was revoked, against section 177A.

Subdivision 5 Court review of direction

100Z Application for review

- (1) The following persons may, at any time while a police protection direction is in force, apply to a Magistrates Court for a review of the direction—
 - (a) the respondent;
 - (b) the aggrieved;

[s 19]

- (c) an authorised person for the aggrieved;
 - (d) a person acting under another Act for the aggrieved.
- (2) The application must—
 - (a) be in the approved form; and
 - (b) state—
 - (i) the nature of the outcome sought; and
 - (ii) the grounds on which the outcome is sought; and
 - (c) be filed in the court.
- (3) As soon as practicable after the application is filed, the clerk of the court must give a copy of the application to the police commissioner.
- (4) In this section—

authorised person, for an aggrieved, means an adult authorised in writing by the aggrieved to represent the aggrieved in relation to an application under this subdivision.

100ZA Filing and service of documents

- (1) The police commissioner must, within 1 business day or as soon as practicable after receiving a copy of an application for the review of a police protection direction under section 100Z(3), file the following documents in the court—
 - (a) a copy of the direction;
 - (b) the signed written notice stating the grounds for issuing the direction prepared by the police officer who issued the direction under section 100O(2);
 - (c) if the direction does not include the matters mentioned in section 100N(2)(b) and (c)—a statement made and signed by the police officer who issued the direction about the following matters—

- (i) the nature of the protection order sought by the application for a protection order;
 - (ii) the grounds on which the protection order is sought;
 - (d) a notice, to be served on each person mentioned in subsection (4)(a) and (b), stating that the person will be notified of the date, time and place for the hearing of the application for the review.
- (2) The reference in subsection (1)(c) to the application for a protection order is a reference to the application for a protection order the police protection direction is taken to be under section 100ZB(1).
- (3) The clerk of the court must make arrangements for—
- (a) the application for the review to be listed for hearing at the earliest opportunity and not later than 14 business days after the day the documents are filed under subsection (1); and
 - (b) the persons mentioned in subsection (4)(a) and (b), and the police officer or service legal officer responsible for the matter, to be notified of the date, time and place of the hearing.
- (4) A police officer must—
- (a) serve a copy of each of the documents filed under subsection (1) on the applicant; and
 - (b) serve a copy of the application for review and a copy of each of the documents filed under subsection (1) on—

[s 19]

- (i) each person, other than the applicant, who is entitled under section 100Z to apply for a review of the direction; and
 - (ii) each named person in the direction.
- (5) Service of a document on a person under subsection (4)—
 - (a) if an address for service for the person is known—may be made in any way; or
 - (b) otherwise—must be made personally by a police officer.
- (6) Failure to comply with subsection (4) or (5) does not invalidate or otherwise affect the application for review of the police protection direction.

100ZB Police protection direction taken to be application for protection order

- (1) If the police commissioner files documents for a police protection direction under section 100ZA(1)—
 - (a) the police protection direction is taken to be an application for a protection order; and
 - (b) the police officer who issued the direction is taken to be the applicant.
- (2) If the application for a review of the police protection direction is made by the respondent to the direction and the application seeks a protection order against the aggrieved in favour of the respondent—
 - (a) the application by the respondent is taken to be an application for a protection order against the aggrieved; and
 - (b) for applying part 3, division 1A—
 - (i) the application for a protection order taken to have been made by the police officer is taken to be an original application under section 41A(1)(a); and

- (ii) the application for a protection order taken to have been made by the respondent is taken to be a cross application under section 41A(1)(b).

Note—

See sections 41C and 41G in relation to the court hearing and deciding the original application and cross application together.

100ZC Effect of application

- (1) The making of an application under section 100Z, or the filing of documents under section 100ZA, relating to a police protection direction does not affect the operation of the direction or prevent the taking of any action to implement the direction.
- (2) Subsection (3) applies if—
 - (a) a review of a decision to issue a police protection direction has started, but not been finally dealt with, under subdivision 4; and
 - (b) an application relating to the police protection direction is made under section 100Z and a copy of the application is given to the police commissioner under section 100Z(3).
- (3) The review under subdivision 4 must be discontinued.

100ZD Decision of court about police protection direction

- (1) Part 3 applies to the court hearing and deciding an application for a protection order taken to have been made under section 100ZB in relation to a police protection direction.

- (2) However, in addition to the orders the court may make under part 3 in relation to the application, the court may also make—
 - (a) an order setting aside the police protection direction; or
 - (aa) an order that the police protection direction ends on a stated day; or
 - (b) a decision to dismiss the application.
- (3) If the court makes an order setting aside the police protection direction—
 - (a) the direction is taken never to have been issued; and
 - (b) the direction does not form part of the respondent's domestic violence history; and
 - (c) despite paragraphs (a) and (b), a proceeding may be started or continued against the respondent for an offence, committed before the direction was set aside, against section 177A.
- (3A) If the court makes an order that the police protection direction ends on a stated day—
 - (a) the direction ends on the stated day; and
 - (b) the part of the respondent's domestic violence history relating to the direction must include the following information—
 - (i) the court's order;
 - (ii) the day the direction ends under paragraph (a).
- (4) If the court decides to dismiss the application—
 - (a) the police protection direction continues unaffected by the application under section 100Z; and

- (b) another application under section 100Z by the same applicant may be made in relation to the police protection direction only with the leave of the court.
