PART 2—INFORMATION ABOUT THIS ACT

villy this fiet was chaeted	_
10.(1) In 1973, the international community responded to worldwide concern about the threat to the marine environment and coastlines posed by the discharge of ship-sourced pollutants.	3 4 5
(2) The international community's response was the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution from Ships, 1973.	6 7
(3) The Convention, for the first time, set international standards for the proper construction of ships designed to carry oil and noxious substances and laid down rules about the level of discharges that may be made into the sea without risk to the marine environment.	8 9 10 11
(4) The Convention, as amended, is known as MARPOL. <sup>3</sup>	12
(5) MARPOL was ratified by Australia in 1987.	13
(6) This Act gives effect to MARPOL by—	14
(a) enacting as part of Queensland's law provisions to give effect to relevant provisions of MARPOL; and	15 16
(b) providing a legislative framework in which the provisions can be enforced.	17 18
(7) This approach complements the approach adopted by the Commonwealth and the other States.	19 20
Queensland's jurisdiction	21
11.(1) The body of law governing Australian waters is extremely complex and this section is intended to provide only a very general overview of the State's jurisdiction in the territorial sea.	22 23 24
(2) Queensland's jurisdiction in the territorial sea is limited under the Coastal Waters (State Powers) Act 1980 (Cwlth).	25 26
(3) Because of this limitation, this Act only deals with discharges from	27 ships that happen, or are taken to happen, in the first 3 n miles of the territorial sea and other coastal waters subject to the ebb and flow of the tide.	1

(5) Waters beyond the 3 n mile limit come under Commonwealth jurisdiction to the extent that Australia has jurisdiction.	3
The ships this Act applies to	5
12. This Act applies to all ships in coastal waters.	6
Ship construction, survey and certification	7
13. Issues about ship construction, survey and certification are generally dealt with under the Marine Safety Act.	8
How this Act interacts with other environmental laws	10
14.(1) This Act deals with the discharge of pollutants into coastal waters happening from ships or because of transfer operations involving ships.	11 12
(2) If a pollutant is discharged into coastal waters from another source, other environmental laws may apply. <sup>5</sup>	13 14
PART 3—MARINE POLLUTION STRATEGIES	15
Division 1—Development and approval of strategies	16
Development and approval of marine pollution strategies	17

(4) The Minister may approve marine pollution strategies submitted for approval or require the chief executive to amend the strategies in the way the Minister directs.	9 1( 11
(5) The Minister must table a copy of each marine pollution strategy, and each amendment of a marine pollution strategy, approved by the Minister in the Legislative Assembly within 5 sitting days after its approval.	12 13 14
Contents of marine pollution strategies	15
16.(1) Marine pollution strategies must include—	16
(a) a statement of the specific objectives sought to be achieved; and	17
(b) proposals for the provision of marine pollution prevention initiatives and related marine operational initiatives; and	18 19
(c) criteria for deciding priorities for government spending on marine pollution prevention initiatives and related marine operational initiatives, and options for raising the necessary finance; and	20 21 22

(a) the policies, projects and financial provisions for carrying out marine pollution strategies; and
(b) the performance targets to be achieved.
(3) Marine pollution prevention and response programs may include proposals to spend amounts on programs other than marine pollution if the spending may contribute to the minimisation of marine pollution in coastal waters.
(4) In developing marine pollution prevention and response programs, the chief executive must take reasonable steps to consult with government agencies, port authorities, local governments, sectors of the maritime industry and community and interest groups that, in the chief executive's opinion, would be affected by the programs.
(5) Marine pollution prevention and response programs are to be made publicly available in the way decided by the Minister.
(6) The Minister may at any time direct the chief executive to amend marine pollution prevention and response programs.
(7) The Minister may approve marine pollution prevention and response programs that are submitted for approval or require the chief executive to amend the programs in the way the Minister directs.
