the council may appoint any person to be the council's nominee for the purposes of this section in respect of any or all trust accounts of which that practitioner is, whether solely or jointly with any other person or persons, a trustee.

(3A) If that practitioner, and, where any other person is authorised to operate on that trust account, that other person, be unwilling, unable, or not readily available within the locality in which the practitioner carried on practice as such at the date of the appointment of the nominee, to operate on that account in conjunction with the council's nominee, the council's nominee may thereupon operate on any such trust account alone.

(3B) A statutory declaration made by the council's nominee and subscribed under the Oaths Act 1867 to the effect that the practitioner, and, where any other person is authorised to operate on any trust account, that other person, be unwilling, unable, or not readily available within the locality in which the practitioner carried on practice as such at the date of the appointment of the nominee, to operate on that account in conjunction with the council's nominee shall be sufficient evidence to the practitioner's banker of such fact.

- (b) if a judge on appeal orders that such resolution shall cease to be effective—on the date specified by the judge as the date on which such resolution shall cease to be effective, or if no date is specified on the date of the order.

(9) In every case in which any such resolution has ceased to be effective, the council by its secretary shall as soon as practicable serve on all persons who have been served with a copy of such resolution written notice that such resolution has ceased to be effective.

(12) A person appointed under this section to be the council's nominee and a person appointed under section 11A to be a receiver shall be deemed to be 'a practising practitioner' for the purposes of section 24 and to be 'a practitioner' for the purposes of sections 25, 26, 27 and 29.

and that practitioner is (or if the practitioner has died was) either solely or jointly with any other person or persons, a trustee of any trust account, the council may appoint any person or persons to be a trustee of such trust account.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of subsection (1), the council may appoint a person to be a trustee of any trust account in respect of which some other person has previously been appointed by the council to be a trustee if the resolution passed appointing such other person has ceased to be effective.

(3) At least 14 days before any resolution appointing any person to be a trustee is passed by the council, a copy of the proposed resolution and a written notice that any person desiring to object thereto may forward his or her objection in writing to the council, shall be forwarded by the council through its secretary by prepaid registered post to each of the following persons, at the person's usual place of abode or business or at the person's place of abode or business last known to the council, namely—

- (a) the practitioner who is the trustee of such trust account, if the practitioner is alive; and
- (b) a practitioner who is a partner of such practitioner or was at the date of the practitioner's death a partner of such practitioner who has died; and
- (c) if such practitioner is dead, to any person who has notified the council that the person is the executor or administrator of such practitioner; and
- (d) the manager or other principal officer of the office or branch of the bank (as the case may be) with which such trust account is kept.

(3A) In any case where—

- (a) a practitioner is, or if the practitioner has died was, the sole trustee of a trust account; and
- (b) the council is of the opinion that special circumstances exist that require the immediate appointment of a trustee of the trust account;

the council may make that appointment notwithstanding that the period of 14 days has not elapsed since the forwarding of the notices prescribed by subsection (3).

(4) No person shall be appointed as trustee under this section if the person does not consent to be so appointed.

(5) The council shall consider any objections to the proposed resolution, but the fact that such objections have been made shall not prevent the council from passing any such resolution.

(6) As soon as practicable after any such resolution has been passed, the council by its secretary shall forward by prepaid registered post a written copy thereof to each of the persons to whom a copy of the proposed resolution was required by this section to be forwarded.

(7) After any such resolution has been passed, and until it ceases to be effective, the person so appointed by the council shall be for all purposes a trustee of such trust account in place of the practitioner referred to in subsection (1).

(8) Any of the following persons may appeal against the appointment of a trustee under this section to a judge of the court in chambers who is hereby authorised to make such order in the matter as the judge may think fit—

- (a) the practitioner in whose place such trustee has been appointed;
- (b) a practitioner who is a partner of the practitioner in whose place such trustee has been appointed or who was at the date of the practitioner's death a partner of such practitioner who has died;
- (c) any other person who is a trustee of the trust account in respect of which a trustee has been appointed;
- (d) any person entitled as beneficiary to any part of such trust account;
- (e) any executor or administrator of a practitioner who has died and in whose place such trustee has been appointed;
- (f) any other person aggrieved by the appointment.

(9) A resolution passed as aforesaid shall cease to be effective—

- (a) if the council rescinds such resolution—on the date of the meeting of the council when such resolution is rescinded (and it is hereby declared that any such resolution may be rescinded by the council); or
- (b) if a judge on appeal orders that such resolution shall cease to be effective—on the date specified by the judge as the date on which such resolution shall cease to be effective or if no date is specified on the date of the order.

(10) In every case in which any such resolution has ceased to be effective, the council by its secretary shall as soon as practicable forward by prepaid registered post to each of the persons to whom a copy of the resolution was forwarded at the person's usual place of abode or business or at the person's place of abode or business last known to the council notice that such resolution has ceased to be effective.

(11) When the manager or other principal officer of the office or branch of any bank (as the case may be) has received from the secretary of the council a copy of a resolution purporting to have been passed under this section, and such manager or other principal officer has not received notice that such resolution has ceased to be effective, such manager or other principal officer shall not be bound to inquire whether the requirements of this section have been complied with, and a bank which makes any payment in good faith in the belief that any such resolution was validly passed shall not incur any liability that it would not have incurred if such resolution had been validly passed.

(12) A person appointed under this section to be a trustee of a trust account shall be deemed to be 'a practising practitioner' for the purposes of section 24 and to be 'a practitioner' for the purposes of sections 25, 26, 27 and 29.

(13) In this section—

“bank” includes a building society or other financial institution.

“trust account” includes any account or fund into which moneys which are trust moneys within the meaning of the Trust Accounts Act 1973, section 4 are deposited in the name or under the control of the practitioner or where the practitioner has authority for the disposal thereof.

Appointment of receiver of trust property

11A.(1) In this section—

“certificate of appointment of receiver” means, in relation to a receiver, a copy of the order of the court appointing the receiver, or, where the receiver is appointed by a resolution of the council, a certificate in writing of his or her appointment as receiver under this section, as referred to in subsection (3), including a copy of such certificate.

“court” includes a judge.

“former practitioner” means a person in relation to whom a receiver is appointed under subsection (1A).

“receiver” means a person who holds at any material time the appointment of receiver under and for the purposes of this section.

(1A) An appointment of a receiver under and for the purposes of this section may be made by—

- (a) the council where a person who has been a practitioner—
 - (i) has been and remains struck off the roll; or
 - (ii) has been and remains suspended from practice; or
 - (iii) having been and remaining struck off the roll or suspended from practice, dies; or
- (b) the council—
 - (i) where a practitioner has been refused a certificate, or the certificate held by the practitioner has been cancelled, pursuant to section 41 or 41A; or
 - (ii) where the certificate held by a practitioner has been suspended pursuant to section 41B;
and the refusal, cancellation or, as the case may be, suspension remains of force and effect; or
- (c) the council, where it has passed a resolution, in respect of a practitioner who is neither an applicant for nor the holder of a certificate, that the circumstances relating to that practitioner are such that, if the practitioner were an applicant for or the holder of a certificate, the application would be refused or the certificate cancelled, as the case may be, pursuant to section 41 or 41A or, if the practitioner were the holder of a certificate, the certificate would be suspended pursuant to section 41B; and such resolution as aforesaid remains of force and effect; or

- (d) the court, on the application of the council, where a practitioner dies.

(1B) Any person may be appointed a receiver.

(1C) The council may—

- (a) if the receiver is a practising practitioner—authorise the receiver to carry on the practice of the former practitioner or the former practitioner's legal personal representative;
- (b) if the receiver is not a practising practitioner—authorise a practising practitioner to carry on the practice of the former practitioner or the former practitioner's legal personal representative on behalf of the receiver;

for such period as is necessary to properly wind-up the practice in the interests of its clients.

(2) A person appointed under and for the purposes of this section as receiver shall be a receiver of all or any property, being of such a nature as is specified in subsection (2A), which belongs to or is held by the former practitioner, or by some person on the former practitioner's behalf, or is recoverable by the former practitioner, or where the former practitioner is dead, which by reason of such death is or may be held or recoverable by the personal representative of the deceased former practitioner.

(2A) The property referred to in subsection (2) is—

- (a) moneys in a trust account in any bank in the name or firm name of the former practitioner or in the name of the former practitioner's personal representative and, except in the case of a former practitioner who has died, other property, whether moneys or not, including a chose in action, held by the former practitioner in trust for another person;
- (b) money, including interest, dividends or other income, received by the receiver during a receivership and arising from property held by the receiver pursuant to this section;

- (c) ledgers, books of account, vouchers, records, deeds, wills, files, and other documents and writings of any description.

(3) When a receiver is appointed by resolution of the council, the secretary of the council may from time to time issue a certificate in writing of such appointment, and any certificate of appointment of receiver may certify the nature of the receiver's authority in relation to any trust account or accounts or other property according to the purpose for which such certificate is to be used.

(3A) Any document or part of or endorsement on any document which purports to be a certificate of appointment of receiver purporting to be under the hand of the secretary of the council shall be received as evidence of the matter or matters certified to therein and, in the absence of evidence in rebuttal thereof, shall be conclusive evidence of such matter or matters; and the signature thereon, purporting to be that of the secretary, shall be taken to be the signature it purports to be until the contrary is proved.

(3B) A certificate of appointment of receiver shall, if and as soon as such service is reasonably practicable, be served on the former practitioner, or if the former practitioner is dead, on the former practitioner's personal representative (if any) as well as on any other person to whom in the opinion of the council or the court, as the case may be, it is desirable that notice of the appointment of the receiver should be given.

(4) The receiver may serve on the manager or other principal officer of the office or branch of a bank a notice in writing, with a certificate of appointment of receiver attached or appended thereto, forbidding any dealing, including in any case the completion of any uncompleted dealing commenced before the service of the notice, except by the receiver, with any trust account in the name or the firm name of the former practitioner or, where the former practitioner is dead, any trust account which is in the former practitioner's name or firm name or which was formerly in the former practitioner's name or firm name and is now in the name of the former practitioner's personal representative.

(4A) Upon service of such a notice and certificate the receiver shall be for all purposes a trustee of any trust account to which the notice relates in place of the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative.

(4B) The bank on whose officer the notice is served shall not permit any such dealing with any trust account to which the notice relates except by the receiver.

(4C) The receiver may withdraw all the moneys in any such trust account or from time to time withdraw any of such moneys, and pay them into a special account or special accounts in the receiver's own name, and may operate on and otherwise deal with the special account or special accounts as the former practitioner might have operated on or dealt with the aforementioned trust account.

(5) The receiver may by separate advertisement in such form as the receiver considers sufficient or by advertisement jointly with the council if the council is advertising for claims in respect of the former practitioner, or otherwise as the receiver thinks fit, require persons having any claims in respect of any moneys which have been held in any trust account as aforesaid or any other property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver to submit their claims to the receiver, and by such advertisement or otherwise a time may be specified, being in the case of an advertisement not less than 30 days from the date of its publication, within which such claims shall be submitted to the receiver.

(5A) The receiver may in administering any such moneys and other property disregard any claim not submitted to the receiver within the time so specified.

(6) The receiver may acquire or take possession of any property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver and may require the former practitioner or the former practitioner's legal personal representative to immediately deliver to the receiver all property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver or to immediately give to the receiver all relevant information concerning the disposition of that property.

(6A) However, all ledgers, books of account, vouchers, records, deeds, wills, files, and other documents and writings (other than those relating either to any property referred to in subsection (2A)(a) or to the former practice of the former practitioner), shall, as soon as reasonably may, be returned to the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative.

(6B) If the former practitioner or, as the case may be, the former practitioner's personal representative, or any other person, on being required by the receiver to transfer or deliver to the receiver, or to permit the receiver to take possession of, any such property in his or her possession or at his or her disposition or under his or her control, does not comply with the requirement, or if it appears to the receiver that any such person on being thus required has not fully complied with the requirement, the receiver may apply to the court for an order for the transfer or delivery to the receiver of such property, whereupon the court may make such order as to the court seems fit.

(6C) If it appears to the receiver that an order thus made by the court is not complied with, the court may on application by the receiver authorise any police officer and police officer's assistants, or the receiver or some other person and any police officer and his or her assistants to enter any premises or other place specified in the order and to search for any property of which the receiver is entitled under the provisions of this section to take possession, and to seize such property and remove it to such place as the receiver thinks fit, and on such application the court may make such further order in the matter as to the court seems fit.

(6D) A person who fails or refuses, without lawful justification or excuse, to immediately deliver all property or give all relevant information as required or otherwise hinders, obstructs or delays the receiver in the performance of the receiver's duties or in the exercise of the receiver's powers pursuant to this section shall be guilty of an offence.

Maximum penalty—40 penalty units or 6 months imprisonment.

(7) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Limitation of Actions Act 1974, an action by a receiver to recover property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver may be brought at any time within 6 years of the date of the appointment of that person as receiver.

(7A) Where property has been taken by or paid or transferred to a person improperly, unlawfully or in breach of trust and that person knew or had reasonable grounds to believe at the time of the taking, payment or transfer that it was done improperly, unlawfully or in breach of trust, the receiver shall be entitled to recover from that person a sum equal to the difference between the value of the property and any consideration paid in respect of the taking, payment or transfer of the property.

(7B) Upon recovery of that sum from that person, that person shall cease to be liable therefor to any other person.

(7C) Where money has been paid by the former practitioner improperly, unlawfully or in breach of trust to a person in respect of a cause of action which that person had or claimed to have against some third party and that person knew or had reasonable grounds to believe at the time of the payment that it was done improperly, unlawfully or in breach of trust, the receiver shall be entitled to recover from that person the money so paid.

(7D) Where property has been used improperly, unlawfully or in breach of trust to discharge a debt or liability of a person, and that person knew or had reasonable grounds to believe at the time of the discharge that it was discharged improperly, unlawfully or in breach of trust, the receiver may recover from that person a sum equal to the value of the property so used.

(7E) In proceedings brought pursuant to subsections (7A) and (7C) a certificate given by an accountant qualified to conduct the audit of trust accounts under the Trust Accounts Act 1973 and authorised by the society shall be evidence, and in the absence of evidence to the contrary, conclusive evidence in respect of—

- (a) the taking, payment or transfer of the property;
- (b) the nature and value of the property taken, paid or transferred;
- (c) the date of taking, payment or transfer of the property;
- (d) the identity of the person by whom the property was taken or to whom it was transferred or paid;
- (e) the entries made in trust accounts, ledgers, books of account, vouchers and records of the former practitioner and of the truth or falsity of those entries;
- (f) moneys and securities held at any time by the former practitioner.

(7F) Where a person who has suffered pecuniary loss through stealing or fraudulent misappropriation by a former practitioner receives compensation from the fund for the whole or part of that loss and subsequently receives from another source a sum by way of damages or compensation or indemnity in respect of that loss or repayment of money in respect of that stealing or fraudulent misappropriation, that person shall reimburse the fund to the extent that the sum subsequently received permits.

(8) Any person who at any time, whether before or after a receiver has been appointed, with intent to defeat the purposes of this section—

- (a) withdraws money from or makes any payment out of any trust account; or

- (b) destroys or conceals or removes from one place to another place or delivers into the possession or places under the control of any other person any property of which a receiver may be or has been appointed;

shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable upon conviction upon indictment to a fine of not more than 100 penalty units or to imprisonment for a term of not more than 2 years.

(8A) If in any prosecution for any such offence it is proved that the person charged has done an act specified in subsection (8)(a) or (b), the person shall be deemed to have done the act with intent to defeat the purposes of this section unless the person proves that he or she did the act without such intent.

(9) The receiver may deal with any trust moneys and other property which the receiver has acquired or of which the receiver has taken possession under the provisions of this section in any manner in which the former practitioner might lawfully have dealt with the trust moneys and property.

(9A) The receiver in the name of the former practitioner or in the receiver's own name may do all acts or things necessary or desirable in the exercise of the receiver's powers or the performance of the receiver's duties and, without limiting the generality thereof may—

- (a) prove, grant, claim and draw a dividend in respect of any debt due to the solicitor in connection with any property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver;
- (b) give receipts for any money received by the receiver, which shall effectually discharge the person paying the money from all responsibility in respect of the application thereof;
- (c) employ a barrister, solicitor, attorney or other agent to give advice or take any proceedings or otherwise act for the receiver in relation to any property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver;
- (d) bring or defend any legal proceedings;
- (e) execute all deeds and other documents;

- (f) lodge any caveat and do any other act or thing necessary or desirable for the preservation of the property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver;
- (g) compromise any claim by the receiver in respect of the property of which the receiver has been appointed receiver which compromise is reasonably necessary or desirable for the preservation of that property.

(10) The receiver, and the former practitioner, or if the latter is dead the former practitioner's personal representative, and any person who has submitted to the receiver a claim in respect of any trust account or other property, may each of them apply to the court for directions to the receiver as to the manner in which the receiver shall or may exercise any or all of the powers conferred or perform any or all of the duties imposed on the receiver by this section, either generally or in respect of any particular matter specified in the application; whereupon the court may make such order as to the court seems fit.

(11) The receiver may give notice to the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative that if he or she has any claims to moneys in a trust account or other property he or she shall, within a reasonable time (being not less than 30 days from the giving of the notice) to be specified in the notice, submit to the receiver full particulars of the moneys or other property claimed and the grounds of the claims.

(11A) If such notice has been given the receiver may disregard any such claim made by the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative otherwise than in accordance with the terms of the notice.

(11B) The former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative shall not be entitled to any payment or otherwise in respect of any such claim and shall not be entitled to a lien upon any document or writing held by the receiver unless the proper claims of all other persons are fully satisfied.

(12) If the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative claims a right to payment of costs due to the former practitioner from any person or persons entitled to moneys or other property held by the receiver pursuant to the provisions of this section, the receiver may by notice in writing require the person to deliver to the receiver, within a reasonable time (being not less than 30 days from the giving of the notice) to be specified in the notice by the receiver, a detailed bill of costs in respect of each of the former practitioner's dealings with each of such persons, and may also by the same or a subsequent notice in writing require the former practitioner to tax any such bill of costs within a reasonable time to be specified therein by the receiver.

(12A) If the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative fails to comply with any such requirement the receiver may, in distributing the moneys and other property thus held by the receiver, disregard any such claim for costs.

(13) If the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative claims a lien for costs on any document or writing held by the receiver, the receiver may by notice in writing require the former practitioner to give to the receiver, within a reasonable time (being not less than 30 days from the giving of the notice) to be specified in the notice by the receiver, particulars of all documents and writings on which the former practitioner claims a lien and to deliver to the receiver, within a reasonable time (being not less than 30 days from the giving of the notice) to be specified in the notice by the receiver, a detailed bill of the costs in respect of which each lien is claimed, and may also, by the same or a subsequent notice in writing, require the former practitioner to tax any such bill of costs within a reasonable time to be specified therein by the receiver.

(13A) If the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative fails to comply with any such requirement in respect of any lien claimed by the former practitioner the receiver may in dealing with such document or writing disregard the lien.

(13B) If the former practitioner or the former practitioner's legal personal representative so requests in writing, the receiver shall give to the former practitioner or the former practitioner's legal personal representative or other person on his or her behalf access to all relevant books and documents as is reasonably necessary to enable the preparation of the bill of costs and the times specified in the notice pursuant to subsection (13) shall not commence until the receiver gives such access.

(14) The receiver may apply to the court for an order that the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative, as the case may be, do appear before the court to be examined by the receiver as to any trust moneys or other property of which the receiver has been appointed to be receiver, whereupon the court may make such order as to such examination of the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative as to the court seems fit.

(14A) In such examination before the court the receiver may be represented by counsel, and the court may put or allow such questions to be put as it thinks fit.

(14B) The former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative shall be examined upon oath and he or she shall answer all such questions as the court puts or allows to be put to him or her.

(14C) Unless the court otherwise directs, the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative shall not be excused from answering any question put to him or her on the ground of any privilege claimed by him or her or on the ground that the answer to it may expose him or her to punishment.

(15) The council may at any time terminate the appointment of a receiver appointed by the council, and if such an appointment has been terminated by the council or otherwise, except by order of the court, the council may appoint another person to be the receiver in the receiver's place.

(15A) The council or the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative may at any time apply to the court for an order that the appointment of a receiver (whether made by the council or by the court) be terminated, whereupon the court may make such order, including the appointment of another person or a direction to the council to appoint another person, to be the receiver in the receiver's place, as to the court seems fit.

(15B) If the appointment of a receiver appointed by the court terminates otherwise than by order of the court, the council may apply to the court for the appointment by the court of another person to be the receiver in the receiver's place, whereupon the court may make such order as to the court seems fit.

(15C) If a receiver's appointment is terminated by the council or by an order of the court, and another person is appointed to be the receiver in the receiver's place, the former receiver shall, as soon as the former receiver reasonably may, and subject to any directions given by the court under this section transfer or deliver to the receiver appointed in the former receiver's place all trust moneys and other property as well as all documents and writings which the former receiver holds by virtue of his or her appointment as receiver.

(16) Where the former practitioner has been suspended from practice and the period of the former practitioner's suspension has terminated, the receiver may, and upon demand in writing by the former practitioner shall, as soon as the receiver reasonably may, and subject to any directions given by the court under this section and subject unless the council shall otherwise determine to the payment by the former practitioner of the receiver's remuneration expenses and costs set forth in subsections (19) to (19C), transfer or deliver to the former practitioner all trust moneys and other property which the receiver holds by virtue of his or her appointment as receiver, and upon such transfer or delivery being completed the receiver's appointment as receiver shall terminate.

(17) If a receiver's appointment is terminated by the council or by order of the court and no other person is within 14 days of such termination appointed to be receiver in his or her place, the receiver may, and upon demand in writing by the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative shall, as soon as he or she reasonably may, and subject to any directions given by the court under this section, and subject unless the council shall otherwise determine to the payment by the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative of the receiver's remuneration expenses and costs set forth in subsections (19) to (19C), transfer or deliver to the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative all trust moneys and other property which the receiver holds by virtue of his or her appointment as receiver.

(18) If the trust moneys held by the receiver under the provisions of this section are insufficient to satisfy all proper claims in respect of them, the trust moneys so held by the receiver shall be distributed amongst the claimants making such claims in such manner that the deficiency shall be borne by them in proportion to the amounts of the balance of their respective proper claims in respect of such trust moneys.

(18A) For the purposes of subsection (18), the amount of the balance of a claimant's proper claim shall be the amount of that claim less any amount the claimant has received or is entitled to receive from the fund or by action against the society in relation to the fund as reimbursement of pecuniary loss suffered by the claimant so far as that loss related to trust moneys previously held by the former practitioner on behalf of the claimant.

(19) All moneys payable to the receiver as remuneration for the receiver's services as such and expenses and costs of legal proceedings incurred by the receiver as such, may be paid to the receiver by the society out of the fund.

(19A) All moneys paid out of the fund pursuant to subsection (19) and, where the receiver is the society or an officer of the society, such amounts as are reasonable recompense for the work done by the society or that officer as that receiver shall, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, be a first charge on the sum of money which under the provisions of section 24 may be applied from the fund for the purpose of reimbursing persons who have suffered pecuniary loss through stealing or fraudulent misappropriation by the former practitioner or by the former practitioner's clerk or employee of any money or other property entrusted to the former practitioner or to the former practitioner's clerk or employee in the circumstances set forth in that section.

(19B) Any amount thus paid shall be recoverable by the society from the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative as a debt owing by the former practitioner to the society.

(19C) The receiver may from time to time submit to the council an account for such remuneration and for such expenses and costs and in default of agreement between the council and the receiver to the amount to be paid to the receiver for such remuneration, expenses and costs, the court may, on application by the council or the receiver, determine the amount to be so paid.

(20) In any proceedings in the court under the provisions of this section the court may make such order as to the payment of costs of the proceedings and costs incurred in the execution of any order made by the court as to the court seems fit.

(21) If any claim or charge is made by any person against the receiver for any act or omission by the receiver or by the receiver's employees or agents done or made by the receiver or them in good faith and in the execution or purported execution of the powers conferred or duties imposed on the receiver by or under this section, the society may reimburse the receiver out of the fund for all or any costs, charges, expenses, or damages which the receiver may have incurred in relation to such claim or charge.

(21A) For the purposes of section 24, a receiver appointed by the society is deemed to be a practising practitioner.

(22) For the carrying out of the objects of this section or the proper administration by a receiver of all or any trust funds or other property and without derogating from any other provision of this section the court may authorise the receiver to do such things (in addition to the powers conferred upon the receiver by this section) and may give such directions as it deems fit.

(23) Any application under this section to the court shall be by summons in chambers and an order may be made pursuant to any such application notwithstanding that such summons has not been served upon the former practitioner or the former practitioner's personal representative or upon any other person.

(23A) An application to the court by the council may be made, in its own name, or by its secretary or any person thereunto authorised in writing under the hand of the president, deputy president or vice-president, and the provisions of section 5D relating to the taking of judicial notice of the signature of the president, deputy president or vice-president and it being unnecessary to prove the appointment or election of the members, president, deputy president, vice-president, secretary, or other officers shall, with all necessary adaptations, apply and extend in relation to any such application.

(24) Where a former practitioner dies or has died, then a receiver, in the execution or purported execution of the powers conferred or duties imposed on the receiver by or under this section, shall be deemed not to be a personal representative of the former practitioner.

(25) Trust moneys and other property held by the receiver under the provisions of this section shall not be levied upon or taken or attached under any judgment.

(26) Subject to such directions as the court may see fit to make, every receiver shall at such times as the court or the council appointing the receiver to be a receiver may determine, furnish to the said court or council, as the case may be, a report of the receiver's receivership containing such information as the said court or council, as the case may be, may require, and upon the conclusion of the receiver's receivership shall forthwith lodge with the said court or council, as the case may be, in addition to the receiver's final report, all documents and writings in the receiver's possession or under the receiver's control relating to the receivership and, subject to any order of the court for their destruction or otherwise, such documents and writings shall be kept in the custody of the court or council, as the case may be.

(27) Without derogating from the powers of the court, any person who contravenes or fails to comply with any provision of this section shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and shall be liable, if no specific penalty is provided for that offence, to a penalty not exceeding 20 penalty units.

(3) The council may from time to time decide to apply or not to apply the provisions of subsections (1)(b) and (c) either by making them applicable to the death only or the retirement only of any such practitioner or to the payment only of a portion of the total sum represented by such contributions in either case.

(4) The council may with the consent of the Minister apply the whole or a portion of the capital of the fund exceeding the prescribed amount or the income from such surplus for or towards the establishment of a benevolent and provident fund for the benefit of practitioners, retired practitioners, or the dependents of retired or deceased practitioners or for the objects of the society.

(1A) However, any person who has been refused the leave of the council as aforesaid may apply to a judge in chambers against the refusal by the

(2) Subject to subsection (3), no person shall be entitled to recover from the society out of the fund by action or other proceeding as aforesaid an amount greater than the amount of the actual pecuniary loss suffered by the person less the amount or value of all moneys or other benefits received or receivable by the person from any source other than the fund in reduction of such loss.

(3) In settling any claim against the fund pursuant to this section, the council may in its absolute discretion pay to the claimant out of the fund, in addition to the amount to which the claimant is entitled pursuant to subsection (2)—

(7) The court or a judge shall not be bound to determine any such

26. In any action or other proceeding brought against the society in relation to the fund, all defences which would have been available to the practitioner in relation to whom the claim arose shall be available to the society.

(3) The society shall indemnify a claimant against any costs awarded against the claimant in any proceedings brought by the society in the name of the claimant to enforce the rights and remedies of the claimant subrogated to the society under subsection (1).

If fund insufficient to satisfy claims, such claims to be charged on future accumulations

28.(1) No moneys or other property belonging to the society other than the fund shall be available for the satisfaction of any judgment or order obtained against the society in relation to the fund, or for the payment of any claim allowed by the council; but if at any time the fund is not sufficient to provide for the satisfaction of all such judgments, orders and claims they shall (subject to the limitation imposed by this Act) to the extent to which they are not so satisfied, be charged against future accumulations of the fund.

(2) The council may in its absolute discretion, having regard to the rules hereinafter set forth, determine the order in which the judgments and claims charged against the fund as aforesaid shall be satisfied, and may, if the amount accumulated is not sufficient to satisfy all such judgments, orders and claims in full, satisfy any such judgment, order or claim in whole or in part.

(3) Without limiting the discretion of the council it shall, in applying the fund towards the settlement of such judgments, orders and claims as aforesaid, have regard to the following rules—

Application of indemnity moneys

30. No claimant against the fund shall have any right of action against any person, corporation, or company with whom a contract of indemnity is made under this Act in respect of such contract, or have any right or claim to any moneys paid by the insurer in accordance with any such contract of indemnity; but all such moneys shall be paid into the fund and shall be applied in or towards the settlement of relevant claims.
